

RA King Speaks: Incarceration "The Trap"

Many so-called criminals have been rendered criminally insane, and incapable of thinking outside of the criminal element, which is a disease of the brain coming from living within society who becomes open enemies of felons. Blackmen are the usual targets of this open hatred and oppression, due to the fact that we make up the majority of the prison population, and the Blacks suffer a great deal with poverty in this country. Felons lack the credentials to gain decent employment, and leads them through what we call "the trap". Battling self hatred, we fight, and kill over scraps due to the lack of economics and guidance. Too often Black males buy into the stereotypes of what society/media labels us such as: Crazy, Lazy, good for nothing, pimps, gangbangers, abandoners of their kids, drug abusers, drug dealers, and materialistic parasites who live beyond their means, and are doomed to be in prison or dead before their 21st Birthday.

Prison life is modern day Slavery. The institution's staff aim is to demoralize in order to control, by separating said person from self. Prison is the lovechild of Slavery and segregation. Separation is everywhere by way of RACE, gangs, homosexuals and heterosexuals, Inmates and staff. What is quietly implied is for everyone to stick to their side. Today's so-called hip-hop artist perpetuate the propaganda that we as Black men are ignorant chasers of women, jewelry, money, and cars, and nothing more. These images are ingrained in us through ~~the~~ our environment, music, and music videos with their manufactured "gangsta" rap artist. The youth buy into these labels, and try to live up to these myths. Most land in jail without enough money for decent legal representation, due to squandering their money on partying instead of building businesses and saving money. They don't realize that the rich depend on the poor to make bad decisions, so they have less competition in the economic domination in this country. Meanwhile, the felon does his time, is released, and starts the process of "the trap" all over again.
