

Dear: Nicki

November 20th 2012

Reply ID: uu4a.

Greetings Madam! I just received your comments to my "Qualities I Look for In a Man". When I was on the streets, before I became incarcerated, I had one like him but, our jobs schedules didn't add up. So we couldn't spend enough quality time together. So I ended the relationship. But it was on a pleasant note.

I want find another one trust me, especially not locked up.

You should be able to find this type your free out in society. "If not let him find you". Sometimes that's what it takes. And, you've been single for six years? Don't feel bad. I've been single in here nine years. I don't trust these wicked people in this place.

And, always remember if he's a real man he will love and respect you automatically. No everything I describe in my blog ~~is~~ <sup>is</sup> very important. Because this is all apart of the Man's "Character".

So believe me all of it is needed.

And, on top of that I got ton of magazines and everything I wrote in this blog post Women is looking for it.

"So please don't be Fooled Nicki"
Once again just let the Man find you.

Sincerely,
Deanna Tha' Doll