

☺ Out of 'Good' Paper...

11/21/12

Well I'm just redfaced and in shame! This blog is on my last sheet of clean, college-ruled paper. I've ordered more from home, but who knows how long it will take.

So please forgive me for the next round of blogs which will be written on a pad of Office Depot generic brand.

I understand that you may be shocked and appalled by this seeming degradation of this most excellent and first-class forum, but no. This was purely an oversight in the procurement/purchasing division and in no way reflects a cheapening of my corner of the web.

All of my columns and serials will continue to appear with the same vigor and ruthlessness as always. Only the spacing will be changed and it is only temporary.

I hope you all can forgive this mistake and will continue to read, enjoy, and think about the issues presented here!!

Yeah, Peanut; you really screwed the Pooch this time!

Andy