

T121584.

Let me begin by saying we gotta work on a name here because T121584 just aint workin out for me (LOL - J/K 😊). How you do'd though? I recieved your response dated 11/12/2012 and im just getting it 12/8/2012 so sorry for the delay. None the less it was good hearing from you once again.

Its good to know you can make out my horrible handwriting and I didnt qualify on your "worst" handwriting list (LOL).

Theres a couple things you wrote I'd like to touch base on so im'd dive right in. I agree that finding the right person to love is very hard and even once you found that person you dont know if they'll "truly" love you in return.

Your grandmother is extremely wise in telling you all that love has hands and feet and your 100% right in the Bible teaching many that love is an action word. Love takes work and alot of it. To love someone isnt simply to say "I love you", love gets to know a person, walk in their shoes, feel their hurt, joy, peace, and in all ways comfort their minds, ~~body~~ bodies, and emotions. Love is the Greatest emotion/feeling in the world if you have yet the most crushing if you lose it or its violated.

Your right ... love does take work and it doesn't have to be hard work but if the work is hard ... its worth it if the love is real. I think with you being in graduate school that you should continue to do your thing showing the ultimate love for "SELF". The love of another will find you when you can give 100% into loving one another.

You appear to have a good head on your shoulders and that will take you far in life should you stay committed to your goals and achievements you set for yourself. Take care out there and hopefully you'll have the time to hold back at me.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS,
 Marcus T. Rogers #377571
 SCI
 100 Corrections Drive
 Stanley, WI 54768

Questions:

What are you going to ~~study~~ shoot for (degree)?

Are you in a Michigan College or just from Michigan?

What are your plans for the holidays / New Years?

Do you have a name (lol - AA)?