

Voice 12,

How's it going? Hopefully life isn't treating you too bad out there. I want to begin by saying sorry for the delay in responding to your reply dated 11/12/2012. I just received it yesterday 12/8/2012. However, I got it now so I'm at you right away ^{AA}.

I'm happy to read you enjoyed my "Big Will" post and the "Never be Ashamed to learn from those around you" line. Voice 12, that is real life information / advice and I mean that. You never know what game, insight, or knowledge those around you hold so it be foolish to assume that people in your day to day world can't provide you with knowledge and tools to succeed.

I been in prison over 10 years... Prison is not designed to help / encourage us to grow or be better people. I don't know what is posted about prisons online but all they do is house us, feed us slop, and go out of their way to demean us. To get through ten years of the horror I've witnessed in this place and still be sane, see the good in others, and feel like there enough good in me to change my life... Speaks volumes.

I don't just think it speaks volumes in who I am or what I stand for but it speaks volumes in a sense how "Big Will" stood out in the midst of all this B/S. Through all this B/S I seen a good person and said "let me learn from him!"

Believe it or not... I put my blog posts up to learn from people like you out in the free world. I been mess'ing up my whole life to the point where I've been trapped in this "hell" over ten years. "I" did this but "I" can correct it too. I choose to do so by learning from my mistakes and from the advice and knowledge of others.

Am I perfect... Far from it but I know there's "alot" I can, will, and have changed. I'm glad that BTB has set up a platform for men in my situation to be heard and grow from the advice and wisdom of those in the free world.

I'd love to know how you got linked to BTB? and my post? You seem to be an interesting person and your compliments have not only been received in total appreciation but accepted in total humility as well.

I'd love to hear from you again if possible mainly how if ever you've had to learn from anyone around you?

Have you had to endure struggles in life?

How do you face hard times?

What's your inspiration?

Voicemail, Thanks again for your response. I've enjoyed this exchange and hopefully can hear from you again. Until then, take care and have a wonderful holiday season.

Happy Holidays,
