Dear Two Dogs,

Like a distant light shining into the darkness, your long absent words are silver linings fallen from my sable cloud.

Two Dogs, it's sad our children have to cloister themselves in hatred, however by doing so we are able to provide them the gift that keeps on giving: They have someone to blame for all the wrongs life deals them.

Besides that, I'm glad to see you haven't succumb to terminal pen-paralysis.

Miss you!
