

My New Year's Resolution? Help heal the world.

Hello World,

Happy New Year. I wish you all the very best for 2013! I continue to maintain and adjust to my new surroundings. So far so good.

I wanted to share my vision for 2013 with you. I want us to make 2013 the Year of Peace! 2012 had to be one of the most violent years in U.S. history. We saw unspeakable violence everywhere. No corner of our country was spared. These events truly hurt my soul. It's time for us to stand up as a country and say, that's enough! Only we can put an end to this senseless violence. My heart goes out to every one that lost someone to the senseless violence of 2012. Let's put all the hate and anger to cease. God willing. Let's make 2013 the Year of Peace.

Here is a poem I want to share with you. I do hope you enjoy it. Please feel free to comment on it. I can take the criticism. (smile) Thank you.
