

emackay:

EJ, Notice the reply ID! What's up with that? Thanx for checking to see if my art was posted. I've actually and finally had it all returned to me. (The originals, that is). You mentioned that I never sent you the "text", as you call it, for your painting. I could have sworn I wrote it all on the back w/ a Sharpie. I must have been mistaken. My brain is pretty much thru with money. I still read everyday and try to exercise it every day because I know I'm going downhill and not in a good way. Hopefully I'll find the exit before it's too late. I guess if I can still write then I'm still okay.

I really wish that painting came out clearer/lighter so it is more visible to visitors to this spot. It's my favorite painting that I've done. I have that Grimick and there's many sigils and other charms and curses that I'd like to convert into paintings.

Thanx for letting me vent a little on the phone about Scotty<sup>II</sup> and his drama. I know you didn't want to hear my negativity but you didn't hang up on me for it. Thank you, Ellen. I'll make sure to keep it lite next time. I remember listening to a lot of your drama about your boy friend. Of course noone really enjoys being on the wrong end, but I've always been happy to be there, even if it's just my ear.

"In prosperity our friends know us. In Adversity we know our friends."

RECK
HAVOC