Thank for liking my art! The dog is my ex-wife's Toy Yorkshire terrier. Her name was Rosemary (Rosie) and she was a cute little punk rock girl just like her mama. She had several tiny dreadlocks which was pretty cool for a dog in the '80s. (I'm talking about Rosie, not EJ!) Rosie was tiny as Hell but she was so much dog that now EJ has several dogs just to fill the void Rosie left. Actually, EJ does have several dogs, but it may or may not be for that reason. Sounds good though! She's the only dog I've ever painted. It's on a box-framed canvas, about 10" square x 2 1/2" deep. Glad you liked it. She needed some recognition. I have a dozen or so more paintings I'm trying to get photos of to post. Hope you get a chance to see them.

Listen to "Rosemary" by The Dickies. I thought of her every time I heard it.
