Everything I Need

By JefforEyourCous

Everywhere I go I see my shadow, and hear a voice,
God talks to me, and is very upset at my choice.
The choice on doing wrong, instead of doing right,
I doubt God at times, that's why I have a flickering light.
my path should always be bright, but it's so dim,
because I decided to walk, but I didn't have him.
The light I had kept going out, echoes when I call,
I fell in a pit, no one to help when I fall.
Did satan do his job, did he really do his deed?
I do believe in God, and He's all that I need.
Satan is strong, yeah him and his union,
we look around when we're wrong, God sees what goes on.
when we are tested, we don't know what to do,
satan can only do, what God allows him to.
Stay firm in your faith, time with God is no waste,
have the shield of faith, and righteousness as your breastplate.
Never give up the faith, always talk to the Lord,
because His power is sharper, than any two edge sword.
when we think we're all alone, He's still there,
so talk to Him He's waiting, in all that time you spare.
Don't put trust in man, because he will always let you down,
wants to be miserable like him, leaving you with a frown.
Trust in Him, be of good courage, and just BELIEVE,
because God is all you ever want, and everything you need!
