SAH,

I really don't know what to say to a person who clearly enjoys going on verbal tirades in an effort to degrade and humiliate others. I don't know who Ronald Clarke is or what he did. I do know he is a human being and for that reason alone he deserves to be treated humanely. He is in prison and on death row. He has been punished for his crime and may pay the ultimate penalty. Leave him alone. Nothing you say or do will change his situation.

And stop attacking Nicki. She is a better person than you can ever aspire to be. Do you think being the victim of a crime entitles you to be an insufferable twit? How the heck do you have so much time to prowl the internet verbally defecating on others' blogs? Who are you to psychoanalyze others? You are a pathetic middle-aged heckler who wallows in self-pity and hides behind a computer screen hurling insults at strangers. If you hate criminals so much why don't you become a prison guard? I'd love to see you preach your tough on crime mantra on a prison yard. Then we'd see how brave you are. But since we both know you're a worthless coward why don't you drink a bottle of antifreeze and take a nap.
