

Retia.

Thanks for taking the see I've drawn a couple I hope you can use one a good artist like adjust it or redesign happy with it. I'm glad the "D in a B". And for I didn't do that for Just you. You apologized in your letter about not sending me a X-mas card. I'm glad you understand.

That's one of the Holidays I just want to disappear. And all that "Happy New Year" crap: I heard that so much in here and all I heard was "Happy to be Here." I am being held hostage by a Hostile Government and I'm not happy to be here. I don't want to get all negative and that's what thinking of that causes so I'll let it go.

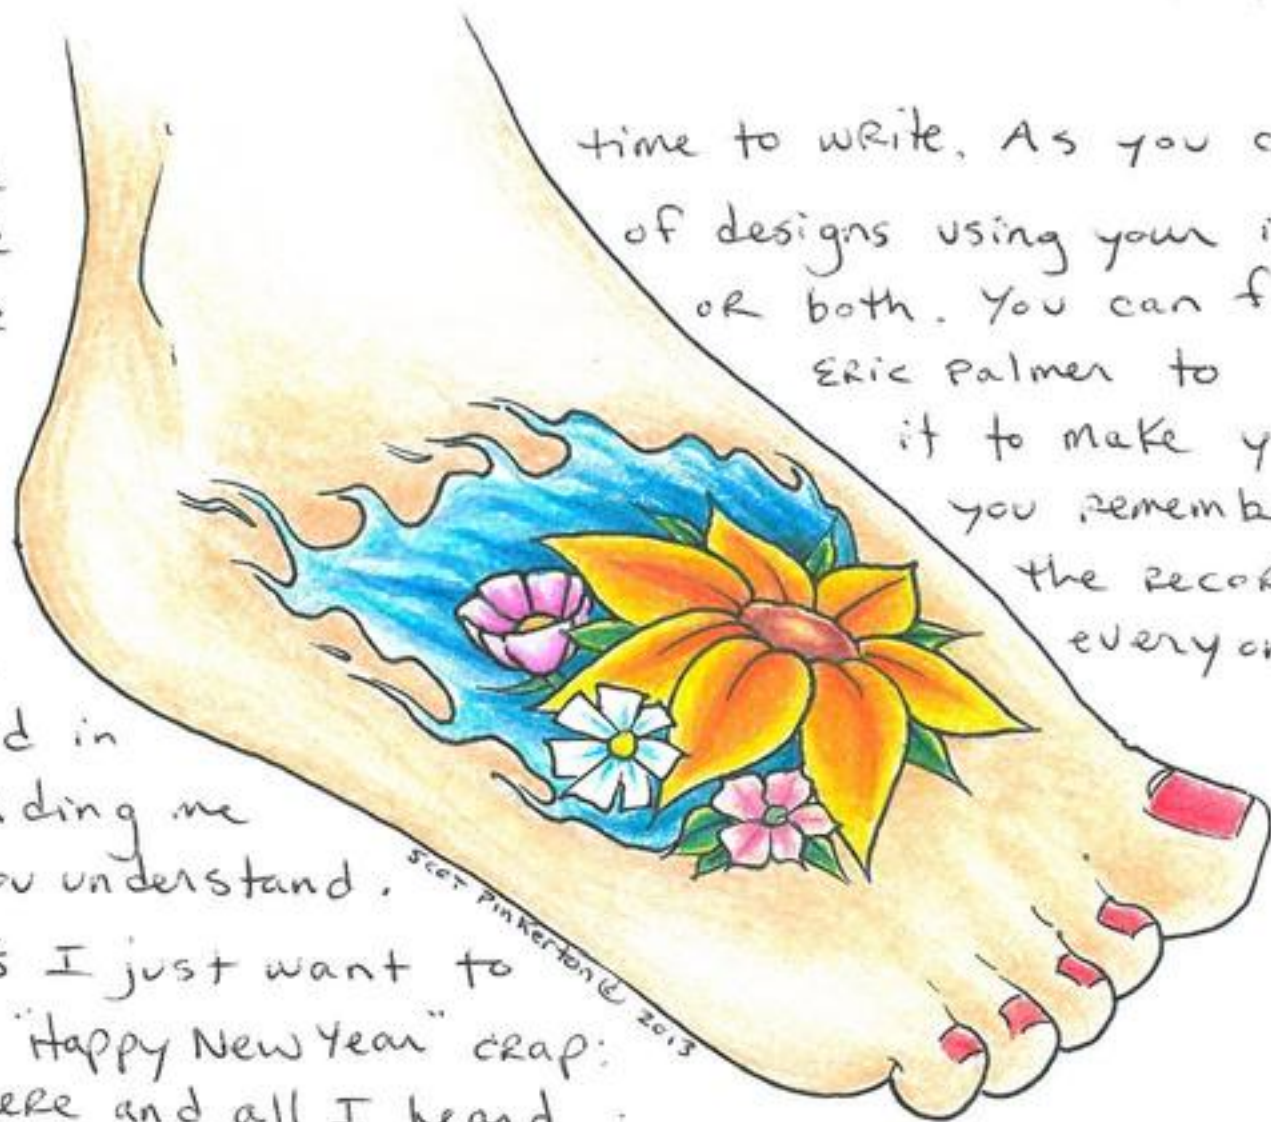

The item I posted titled "flowers and weed" is a mostly metaphorical pondering. I don't know if you got that or not. If not-read it again. I write, or have written, many little things, some are paragraphs, some just a sentence. Things that pop into my head for some reason or the other.

I may post a few things that I have layin' around. And now that I've had some of my art originals returned I'll send in some more.

And, since you mentioned it, I don't think my mom hated you at all, but I agree that your Dad hated me. I was a punk rock hooligan on a motorcycle. It's almost mandatory to hate me! And if he knew what I was doing to his daughter I'd be dead a long time ago! Oi Oi!

I hope you don't think the comment I made about your height was an insult. It was anything but! I thought everyone liked short girls. Obviously it runs in my family: my son Scotty's girlfriend who he just had a baby with is 4 foot 2! Anyway. I'm gone. Thanks again for the letter. Wish I could send you some art, etc directly but I know your "situation" prohibits it. Talk at you soon.

time to write. As you can of designs using your info. or both. You can find Eric Palmer to it to make you you remembered the record everyone.
