

Simplicity thinking

We are All grown here and I mean it even more today I don't have time for typical mind games. I generally play on a level playing field with people, because I don't ever want to intentionally cause any one any pain. Most of the people I converse with do so with their eyes wide open, because this process almost forces us to throw caution to the wind trying to get to know each other.

For the record (confusing) never... Remember the words fulfilling friendships "and perhaps something even more serious, but first? Foremost Friends"! yes I have two friends named Nicki, that are both very sweet and dear to me. I make no secret of that, nor do I have anything to apologize for, and I refuse to let the simplicity thinking of anyone mess up the friendships we are establishing. ————— Next chapter!

on another note: To those that have my undivided attention, I hope you find a reason to smile on Valentine's Day if I don't have a chance to say it on the day smile for me.

Sincerely
