

Candleships 😊

2-1-13

You're absolutely correct! I do need to wish myself enough. When you embark on the emotional rollercoaster of love and it's your turn to get off because this particular ride is over, you forget about yourself and focus on how to console your mate. All that matters is them! So love is blind during and sometimes after a relationship. Our past love life ultimately becomes history, but our thoughts about them continue to shape our future. In giving you are fulfilled and in receiving you are made complete. Your words of endearment have completed my slow trudge into the future. Change is both inevitable and necessary. If everything stays the same, no one is growing. You just watered my growing process. Thank you! I wish my words have impacted your life as your words have impacted mine. I wish you the jubilation of love and life. God Bless!

Rechell Williams #V69138

P.O. Box 5242

CORCORAN, CA 93212