Greetings!

My situation is constantly unraveling towards a view that is at times confusing, yet it clearly fit perfectly in with a paradigm of events that I've studied about.

This has always been a environment that breed plenty of violence however, god and those wise one who have been commissioned to teach me valuable lessons of lifes natural cycles have used me to not only keep the peace but to measure the harmony, humility, and justice within myself.

I have a subtle desire and attraction inside myself to continue to move on surrounded in struggle. I am so immune to it that it begins to evolve as ease. STRANGE! But very real...

Nonetheless, a different battle leaks on the interior that the exterior cultivates. So this is a phenomenon that is extremely common. Essentially, I use the examples of the past to conquer these ones in the present!
