Thank for dropping me a comment and for the letter, too, even tho' I haven't received it yet. It's hard to explain to someone who hasn't done time how important it is to get a letter from someone. Lately all I've been getting is "institutional mail" and it's never good. It's usually denied appeals and the like. I'm not sure about the artwork Jimi has on that mirror you mentioned. It's a good possibility I drew it, but who knows? Can't wait for your letter. Talk to you soon.

PS: Remember that night at Don the Beachcombers when Bobby stomped on my head while I was sleeping? That was a near fatal mistake! What's up with him now? Is he still alive? In prison? He's the first person I met in Hollywood when I landed in 1982.
