Really?! Can Life Imitate Art?

If so, then where do we start? how about through a sincere friendship and Stimulating letters; or maybe through long and lusty phone conversations.

Better yet, how about sharing our minds, thoughts and opinions. The very thing that throughout generations has established some of the most meaningful and lasting relationships.

The foundation to a strong structured relationship is; NOT have you agree with my every answer or opinion. But to gain an understanding of my point of view.

Respecting each others values is what makes us mature adults. Being true to what we believe comes from not compromising our Sacred principles in exchange for some fleeting sense of Security.

Respectfully,
