Thanks for transcribing my post! Glad someone can read my writing ☺

Truly I am humbled by your interest in my story.

I will continue to post about it, not sure how long it takes for post to go up? This post you commented on was only my 2nd, I've posted 7 times so far, today makes 8 -

Hello again, Really glad you're still reading and leaving comments!
Yeah I think we all need a "life raft" as we struggle against the current of life - Faith is that for some, for others not so much - As for seeking truth, I agree with you - In this life I feel that act alone plays a huge part in molding our characters, as for the final truth, well who feels it knows it - I think it is a deeply personal thing - no two people are truly alike - that within itself is the beautiful thing about us - Human beings are unique beings who appear very similar - Religion seems to a lot of times miss the mark on this, especially the ones that arose out of the middle east -

As I said though I do respect people's faith and also religion - I'll tell you though I've never respected the press, you know? The type of religious person full of their faith blinded to others uniqueness, the ones who press their views as though their views were the only views - their truth the only truth -

Anyway - True bill I am glad you posted! Please continue to do so? In respect and with truth -

Jesse
