jay comes in the morning

Hi Shelley!

Thank for writing! Yes it is really me! I know that's a question because Sandra is running my facebook. This blog is hella cool because not only do I get comments mailed to me weekly but they actually let me respond and they notify you that I have responded. They put a lot of work into this thing - the people at MIT - even transcribing all the sloppy handwriting. (Thank again to all the transcribers!) They mail all comments on Mondays and mail here takes a week or so, but I eventually get every comment sent. I actually got all your comments, five of them anyway, in one envelope dated Feb 23 and on each response it has times like: Posted 4 days, 19 hrs ago and 3 days 12 hrs ago, etc. I respond to every comment I get so know that when I get your notes I will answer. There's just a little delay because of course I don't have actual internet access directly. If you read some of my back blogs and/or responses to other people you can see what's going on with my case. I'm thinking I could get out of here by next year! Sounds good. Well see. Thank again, sis, for writing! Talk to you soon.
with love. Scot
