

Where did this story, A cry for help originate?

A cry for help originated from my own life, Jennifer Johnson. I felt like people can relate a lot better to others. When a person shares what they have been through or the things they have done in life. But however 75% to 95% of the time the things we do is out of anger or hurt. I personally been hurt so many times. Till I was crying out on the inside. I didn't take those avenues because I thought it would be fun. I needed someone to love me. I wanted to feel like I was part of something or someone. I sincerely hope sharing A cry for help touch someone's life. I give anyone permission to share this story with anyone you think it would help. Look for part two soon! Take care my friends

Sincerely
Jennifer Johnson
