

Blog Post Pf1

10 Responses

4/15/13

This is a Sincere Apology to the person who commented on my Blog about 3 weeks ago.

I cannot Reply personally BECAUSE I lost your Reply ID.#.

However, if you're reading this please know I took your reply very seriously. Really first because I believe it was the first reply that had a honest critique.

First I'd very much like to thank you and I might agree 100% if it weren't for people like Dennis, (or Beckman) who is old, sorry 'D' ☹️ and runs a Book Project for the Q L B T community behind bars - or people like David who is a sponsor of mine in a 12 step program I'm working. were out there.

Where do you think we get our pride from.?

You see responder, if it weren't for those you feel don't contribute it would be to much hard work placed upon the younger ones.

Blog Post Pg II

To Responder:

4-15-13

I will say this, I owe my life to those younger than I who reached in to the Hell I was in and walking me out.

Like my little brother "Q" or Quentin Zimmerman he rode the tide of solitude with me in solitary confinement, 11 years, I met him through a place in Canada, College Students

So for me to disagree with you would show you how un-grateful I am. Just please don't count the older one out ~~the~~ these usually out because you don't feel we can give any thing to your fight. A new idea sometimes is all it takes to see...

Anyway Responder, I truly do thank you. Keep on reading and I'll keep on reading and learning

EACE,

Billy