How's it go'n? I'm so glad to hear from you! :) I had become so accustomed to hearing from you via the blog that when you did not reachout to me I began to worry :(

Sorry to hear you've been out of work...I'm sure that does suck. I will be rooting for you to land something soon and in the mean time I'm sure you'll remain humble ~~and~~ knowing good things will come to you...I'm sure of that:)

Yes, I do begin a program in September. It's like a boot camp that take about 6 months to complete and your released upon completion of the program. I've been working out like crazy to be in the best physical condition for the program and my mind has been focused on being free soon.

I have made the desicion to continue blogging once i'm out so I'm sure one way or another we'll stay in touch...in the mean time " never " feel like a stranger with me and " always " feel to up date me on whats goin on with you or simply let off some steam. Take care and I hope to hear from you soon :)

Respectfully,

Marcus
