

April 20, 2012

Page 10 of 2

Dear Happy go lucky.

Greetings! Well this was not my intention for this blog to be about destroying other peoples Faith. But in my blogs, especially when I was going through that rough stretch of depression, I'd comment about God and schneehase couldn't just read it and move on which provoked me into writing about how the bible destroyed my Faith. Most of these Christians are phoney you will see a blog that I'm fixing to post Disobedient Christian's. I know the text and I know it very well. Before I even started writing about the contradictions, I prayed that I'd be stopped. I backed away several times. As you can see I'm not writing any more at the moment, cause I'm writing ministries, and if something happens that I prayed about then I will not write any more about it. I'll never have my Faith restored. That's just gone. Cause when I pray or some one prays with me, there's all those biblical problems that come to the front of my mind. I'm not an atheist, I'm an agnostic. The universe is very well put together. And people who say I know, without truly know^{ing} are all fools. There's so much we don't know, and other human beings take advantage of that, creating God's and religion's to manipulate us. If I was God, I'd never put salvation in the hands of a human being. There's just not worthy of having that kind of responsibility. We are evil!

63KX

Ronald H. Clukj

Page 2 of 2

IF I'm wrong, and I could be, then I'll have a whole lot of company. Cause hell will be packed wall to wall with disobedient Christians. Mt 7:21-23 Mt 25:40-46. His words, not mine. I'm searching for true Christians inside these ministries, and so far, nothing. But who knows one may fall out of the sky, I'm doubtful, but hey, you never know. Yes - many will come the churches are full, but few will be chosen. Please take care. In Peace & Love *

Tomie

