RE: A MESSAGE FROM A SLAVE

I just read an article, the State of California's Governor just filed an appeal to the courts to allow him to continue to house and hold California States Slaves in State prisons built upon contaminated soil in the area of central California.

The entire States of California's Citizens should be in an uproar as to the elected Governor's outright lack of concern for the health, and wellbeing of prisoners, who are human being, rather you want to accept it or not.

They have Valley fever, in the direct area of Central California, which has [killed] alot of state prisoners who were housed and held in that area. The States Governor has absolutely no right to subject a Citizen to death without a jury trial.

You have State Official's in the State of California that dont event attempt to conceal there contempt that they have for modern day slaves, I guess they figure, what the hell there own elected Officials dont even care, so why should we care.

Maybe if the California state plantation slave had a voice to advocate on his or her behalf, or the ability to vote and be heard, things would be different, and people would show some concern for the oppression and plight of under class Citizens in the State of California.

However, who cares about a slave housed and held on a concrete plantation?

Sincerely

Allan Tracy Gilmore
