Hey Pilgrim!

OK, I heard another rumor about other metal disappearing from Education. Then, they just added one to Rec. One rumor is that all this is the Captain's idea. Apparently he's delusional & would rather spend money on useless items than on something we need, like microwaves. This is not a violent compound at all & no one walks around with a "shank."

You're right, it is very, very difficult to start over in the U.S. They make it harder with "supervised release" where you have to keep reporting in for several years & the officials will find any excuse to send you back. Some judges are giving "supervised release" for life. I hate this country.

Other than that, I'm OK & hanging in there. Your English is fine - I'm sure it's much better than my French.

Hugs,
