Hey out there ~

I suspect something may be amiss on this blog site, so I'm leaving this message to alert you all that I have not been receiving any "comments" - from anybody - to reply to for some time now. There are a number of photos in limbo which the MIT managers of this blog site have yet to return to me, so I'm pretty certain I must not be receiving your messages as well.

Young Will, I haven't received any words from you at all this year it seems. Dearest Destiny, it has been much longer in your case. Yashua, it's been a few months, son. Look you guys, if the reason you don't write me is because I've offended you somehow, I beg your pardon. Fifteen years in prison has left my sensitivity for proper etiquette wanting - to say the least. I sincerely wish to maintain healthy communications and be a part of your life, so please pardon any faux pas of mine. I wish you all - all the very best in every way.

Rick (zap), I haven't seen any words from you for awhile. Kim, do you still visit this site? Patty, I know you do - but have yet to leave even a single 'comment'.

If and when anyone wishes to write me directly;
