

#159

Nate's News 7/19/2013

Ahoy-hoy:

Well, as usual, I'm worn out, tired, and the lack of movement of air in this cell has me feeling, like I'm being waterboarded. Blah blah....

My apologies to you expecting more cognitive philosophy from me. Yet, don't fret too much. I just got Molecular Neurobiology from, strangely, the seg. library & I've been scouring it for insight on the physical process that result in our minds; not easy, because there's a lot of jargon & symbols & words I don't understand &, due to the restrictions on books, may never understand. But I'm catching the gist & will put it all together "soon".

I got a stack of other article ideas to do, just filed a suit against this joint for destroying a bunch of my books bogusly (etc.) & wrote a legal care package for yet another prisoner who was sexually assaulted by staff here at tazerpoint.

As "evil" as some may think I am, I feel that I must stand up for mistreated prisoners, no matter who or what they are, probably in the subconscious hope they'll be there when I'm in need. They rarely are. This distracts me from writing about consciousness & more beautiful projects that non-prisoners can relate more with. Hope you understand.

Hope you're all doing well & continue to feel free to speak your minds, criticize my mistakes & fluff my ego ☺.

Love & Respect
Nate

( of )