

As part of my ongoing effort to save the world, increase the membership in my cult & make myself feel good, I now present to you the puppy, er, convict of the month, in need of good influences in his life. As I always keep it stupidly real, I must point out that his big problem is drug addiction/abuse, possibly as a means of self-medicating himself to treat his depression. I'll let him tell you whatever he wants, below, & write in his contact info so you can write him & begin the adoption/mentoring process. By him writing this & mailing it to BTB, he agrees that anyone can publish it anywhere in anyway.

It's all yours: I been staying in touch with my good buddy Nate Lindell, he is concerned with drug use & the safety & violations against the inmate population, trying to save the world, good dude. Well as you know I am in prison, Forgery, but it was a result of being high & careless, I have an unlimited supply of Meth: it is very therapeutic for my ADHD, which I been diagnosed with but the Doc refuses to treat, it also works wonders on depression. Well I know how it shows users on T.V. but some of that is over rated, as I have every tooth, perfect shape & I as well am in good shape. Drugs aren't good for me though: its time to change my ways, Meth has caused me alot of unnecessary troubles, I am not a dealer, I have knowledge & therefore self medicate as needed. I don't like the extra attention & problems I get from using though: believe its time to go through the medical field for assistance, well if anyone wants to know more, preferably ladies, about my life goals, sobriety & life in general, feel free to write me at: Cuine Wille

Thank you for your time, Meth has ruined alot of lives in my community.
