

Dear ELANA,

July 28, 2013

Received your words of encouragement. Thanks!

Yes, there are so many people with fickle judgments and stereotypes of people.

But my friend we as imperfect humans must stop picking the container instead of the content. Because as men and women our society does this as the norm.

We should instead judge the heart and nature of a person. Then ELANA we must understand it by taking chances in this cold world of uncertainty, that we learn to be brave, and learn a person's nature and heart!

Sadly, I haven't never been able to judge a person's heart, nature or soul by their container, circumstances nor predicament.

ELANA,

I will conclude for now, but check out my new post: Young Prisoners Need Help, From Inside And Out. And let me know what you think? The Struggle Continues!

Always,
Montell
