

* * * * IN THE BEGINNING * * * *

In the beginning was the man,
and in the beginning was the woman;
the "Rib" was in the woman,
as the "Woman" was in the rib of man.
"Bone of my bone, flesh of mine", said the man.
And the woman was made for man!

In the beginning, God made man,
even in the man, was the woman;
so in God's mind was the woman.
For the woman, Eve, was in heaven.
Indeed, in the woman, god brought down a piece of heaven.
And they both became one, in the beginning!

In the beginning, woman,
knew she was made Eve.
Genesis was Light,
in the beginning;
in the beginning, there
were Adam and Eve,
just before Cain and Abel,
happiness and love lived
and affection, before
divorce feud.
Just before "Chaos" there was bond and order.
Before jealousy, there
was belonging!

In the beginning, Love
was more delightful than wine, before there was
sex,
there were man' caress!
In the beginning, knowing Eve;
the experience was his.
In the beginning Adam
belonged to Eve,
as to Adam, Eve belongs only.

Thus here I stand in my beginning, as man
I want you to know, I have no woman,
I'll tell you the truth: Here I stand, Man!
The question, was, is, and which remains,
Where is my woman, my side-rib and want?
Are ye her, my Eve, and lily-white maiden?

What has gone wrong
with His
legacy?

In the beginning God created Heavens,
God created the Earth,
it was formless,
he without woman on Earth,
was loveless.
God's hovered over
the dark waters.
The woman moved,
and still moves man's heart
God said: Let there be Light!
and He made the woman;
then man's heart was
enlightened,
it was bright in the beginning!

In the beginning there was the kiss.
Long before the bliss.
To know Adam was her duty,
to gaze at him,
was only logical.
To speak to her softly,
was for him natural.
It was Love for them,
even all alone!
