

"Stages Of Man"

Every man grows in stages.
Each stage has fazes.
From a infant to a boy,
To a teen to man.

When the will isn't mature
This is the stage of the infant.
His survival is being dependent.
He is a needy being.
He needs to be clothed, fed, and cleaned.

The boy is a playful being.
He loves to play to games.
To him life isn't serious,
Having fun is his sole aim.

The teen searches for his place.
He has the need to apart of something.
So he tries to fit in.
His ears is light,
So he listens to anything.
Then he falls for anything.
He think he is mature,
But not yet.

The man is confident.
What people thinks,
He could care less.
He isn't careless.
His priorities are set.
His life's in check.
He take cares of responsibilities.
And always put first,
His family.
He cares about his community.
He isn't selfish,
He's selfless.
See being a man isn't define by age.
It is define by your mentality stage.

A man isn't like the infant,
Because he is self-dependent.
A man isn't like the boy,
He doesn't play games,
Because life to him is serious,
And not a game.
Also a man isn't like the teen,
Because he know who he is.
He doesn't have to prove anything.
He doesn't follow in the dark.
He only follows his heart.
He listens, hears, and pays attention.
So he doesn't fall for anything.
If you define yourself by being a man
Because of your age.
You need to wake up,
And define your manhood by your mental stage.
And breakout that mental plague.
