

Thank you for the vote of confidence in my writing skills, it is unfortunate that I missed the deadline for submissions by five days. I love writing, it's how I express myself to the world ~ I have had two poems published in a book called "who do you say I am?" I hope that you'll continue to visit my blog because I periodically post some of my other poetry as well as my thoughts. I do not get many visitors ~ at least not any who leave comments, so I would like to know what you believe could help me make this page visitor friendly and worthwhile to others.

please contact me if I can still submit to the review of prisoner creative writing or if you're willing to just take some time out to get to know me. I also ask that you tell others about my blog page; The more people who know the better the content can become.

I don't want to keep you, so I'll close this, but before I do ...
Thank you again for taking time to view my page.