Da' P.E.N.
(Public Enemy Napalm)

Pimp your pain
Lay blame at the feet of the world
This debt owed to be paid to the society!
Judiciary prejud as punitive restitution

Exploit your grief
A thief sanctimonious of some lost and pillered pearl
Serrated tears blindly trickle to anoint the sanguinary
As woe stained hands exchange compensatory currency

Whore your hurt
Insert and exact reciprocal gumdrops of seditious copulation
Cram your oral and emotional sink holes with deviled eggs
Spilling the seeds of hatred from a bitter spread eagle
Dispursing a like wound for a like wounded earth's remigration

Public enemy napalm
Under strict orders to hold court in this ink

The pen renders judgement from cipher
Who's right? Who's wrong?
Who thought to think this pen silent?
I write in lefthist tones attesting to the rights of lifers
Witness the victims surcharge

I pen unpenitent sentences
Explosively I write in inflammatory discharge
Wronged I write if you can read remote detonated ink blots
Their plot to bury me alive in cement blocks with no m.r.
Before the storm beware the calm
