

womens rights movements in southern asia are the most radical womens rights movements, & these southern asia womens rights movements engage in all sorts of tactical political & economic actions, to support their strategy for womens liberation, there is a domestic united states radical prisoners rights movement, who are natural allies for a womens liberation movement, a womens liberation movement uses what tactical political & economic techniques, & tactics that the womens liberation movement sees as effective in supporting their strategy for womens liberation, short of armed opposition or armed struggle, as such the womens liberation movement is the most diverse in techniques & tactics, post for <http://betweenthebars.org/blogs/1491>