

HAPPY HALLOWEEN

What Then?

Sometimes I sit for hours in silence with SO much to say and completely unable to write or draw anything to say it how it should be expressed... especially when it comes to conveying my personal feelings and fears...

I am an educated man, well educated. I am highly skilled with my hands, and think fast & well on my feet, but am dumb as they come, because I don't know how to apply my skills & traits to my personal life.. I pay so much attention to the finest of details, but the details in my personal life are often overlooked..

One day I will reach the end of my incarceration - what then? where will I go? where will I work? how will I eat? will anyone care? that's what I worry about most these days. Some convicts worry to the extent that the fear drives them to commit more crimes so they won't be released or to violate parole so they can return to prison - here even the chaos is controlled to an extent.

Not Again?

It's October again... My Birthday again... will it happen again?

every Year it seems that Noone in my life Remembers that on OCT. 27 I celebrate another Year of Not Dieing. You'd think that with such an accomplishment of staying alive they'd Remember me..

Ya know I only Recieved a few well wishes from strangers over the past few Years, and the same on holidays.

I Got absolutely NO cards or such in the past 4 Years for any occasion except for 2 Strangers - who found me here and I suppose thought I needed cheering up, "of course my favorite was the little Santa in a swim suit card" and Paper Tree decoration Santa.

I Got a ha-lair-ee-ous card for my B-Day in '08. on the cover is an old man who says "So You're a Year older, look on the Bright Side" then on the inside it says "Gimmie a minute I'm thinking of something". Came from my sis..

I'm Just Saying

10-13-13

It's time for me to let loose my opinions and views on things and current news.

Of course, first on the list is this Government Shutdown everyone is crying about.

What, you didn't see it coming? You voted each and every House Rep into their official position, stood by as these employees of the people gave themselves raise after raise in pay right from your pocket while doing less and less in the interest of you who pay them. So why haven't all of you made your self heard? You gave the government its power, fire them and take some back. Let them know when elections are held what you expect.

I'm not saying like "civil war" type shit. Just SPEAK UP & BE HEARD!

As soon as the majority learns to say (I, me, mine & my) rather than (you, yours, them, & their & theirs) accepting ownership for his or her own part of how the world is we may start to get somewhere with solving all the problems none seems to want to accept any responsibility for.

New Stupidity

The Genuses who Rule the Roost here have Decided that Incoming mail can No longer have Cutesy stickers, coloring, or address labels on or in them. apparently a Mastermind has created Drug based inks to print things with and even Crayons so their kids can create Intoxicating works of art, and the D.O.C. Somehow stumbled onto the Master Plan and foiled it.

Really!

You Can't make This UP!
They're Idiots..