

WHAT WOULD YOU LIKE TO HEAR ABOUT?

Sunday

November 10, 2013

I'm curious to know what sorts of things the people who read these blogs would like to hear about. Are you more interested in hearing about the day-to-day activities, such as those things that cause tension and how that tension's handled? The corruption and hypocrisy that runs rampant in here? Or the various ways in which we struggle to change, and to maintain that change? Perhaps you'd like to hear what we feel about various political topics, or what we think about preserving the environment and global warming. Either way, I ask because I'd like to know so that I might be able to adjust my writing accordingly, the goal being to get people interested enough to post responses, and on a regular basis.

As always, there are several different ways to reach me: by leaving a post in response to my entry, by e-mail: shawnlperrot@hotmail.com or by snail mail at the address listed below. No matter how you choose to contact me, all messages will be responded to.
