Happy Veteran's Day everyone ... and Happy Birthday Marines!

We had a really good veteran's group meeting yesterday. I've included our 2-sided, one page newsletter for November. Hopefully it was included so you can see it for yourself. We shared a meal and had a flag ceremony. Our event included prayers for those serving or their families. We even sang songs, not very well but it was enjoyable especially as each separate branch sang their services theme song.

I've had mail problems since January. Recent a letter sent to A. Turner and B. Franklin were returned. I don't know if my addresses are wrong or what. I've sent J. Smith (California) about 6 letters since January. He sent some books last Christmas and haven't heard anything since. Others I've written 2 or 3 times G. Dangler, T. Hecker, M. Palmer with no responses.

So just letting you know I'm trying. If you're not hearing from me it's not that I'm ignoring you.

Only D. Sanchez letters have made it through recently. Thanks David for the legal addresses, they were a big help. Also heard back twice from G. Dangler. That was before July. Hopefully you've gotten my letters. I'll keep trying. If I lodge a complaint I fear it could get even worse. My family mail and magazines are still being delivered. Intentionally being cut-off from outside communications doesn't surprise me though.

My court work is finished now, so maybe I don't care anymore if they harass me and fire me, and send me to the hole. If my mail doesn't go through (take notice) over Christmas season I will begin the process of repairing this issue myself.

Enough said ... let's see if and when this letter actually reaches and is posted to this blog site. Hey, Does anyone have contact info for Cpl. Tyrone Bird?

Until next time! Have great holidays. Try to reach out to your family during Thanksgiving and Christmas. It's worth the effort. Don't let petty differences keep you separated. Only the devil wins then.

Love and forgive each other as God Himself loves and forgives all of us.
