

10-27-13

The True Test

Ryderlane Jones

In my mind I doubt, in my heart I believe, that there is a God and He watches over me.
It says "He rains on the just and unjust as well, and He'll be there if I made my bed in hell."
Am I worthy? do I consider myself unjust?
do satan cloud my judgment, who should I trust?
why is bad things happening, is this my fate?
Do I need to repent, before it's way too late?
Should I look up to the sky, am I safe from harm?
is there a blessing in the storm, do God have me in His arms when I pray at night, does God hear me speak?
or does He ignore me, because my flesh is weak?
Is it my lifestyle, that got me in this mess?
or am I thankful, do I consider myself blessed?
when I sleep why do I toss, turn, struggle and fight?
where's my protector to protect me from the demons at night?
when I pray will God give me His eternal salvation?
why is my spirit willing, but I still fall into temptation?
my prayers are not being answered, why can't I sleep?
Am I worthy to have an angel, stand guard by my feet?
I call on God all the time, but I don't pray, satan say "it don't look good, and I won't make it any way.
Every knee will bow, and every tongue will confess trust in the Lord with all your heart, that is the true test!