YOU BEEN WARNED!

By 2002

weapon in my hand, attacking another race,
"lord please forgive me" is what's said, before I sliced his face.
Before they even see it, and come run to the scene,
punctured his lung, lacerations on his spleen,
whimpered like a dog, and for his life he pled,
hit the carotid artery, as he begged and begged.
Ran to the toilet but the knife wouldn't flush,
that's what happens when you talk too much.
Note under the door, telling me job well done,
now staff has to inform them, somebody killed their son,
others wanna retaliate, I'm a one army man,
so they drop kites to get rid of me, any way they can.
Shot caller on the yard was impressed by my performance,
now I'm watched by all of the sergeant's informants.
They around every corner, they lurk and lurk,
I'm watching them too, what's next to get hurt.
Don't spread the net, when the bird you wanna catch, watch,
another alarm goes off, another body being dropped.
It's crazy and hectic, keeping my veins in tact,
heavy jacket on, always gotta watch my back.
Despite being in prison, gotta watch how you live,
don't know when, where, why, or who'll be killed?
Coroner came in, an autopsy was performed,
enter this place at your own risk, YOU BEEN WARNED!!!
