Dear Readers,

12-11-13

Howdy everyone! Blessings to all. I'm at a bit of a loss as to what to write about, so this may be a bit boring.

I know I haven't written since before Thanksgiving. For those of you in Europe, I highly recommend you start a Thanksgiving tradition. It's a great holiday for just eating a ton of food & enjoying the day. Of course, it's a lot different in prison, but that's another issue.

OK, our meal was OK, although a bit skimpy on the portions. Also, we had what was supposed to be a turkey drumstick, but the meat was red & looked like ham. It also wasn't cooked that well. It was kinda gross, but whatever.

A week from today we're supposed to get some eggnog & cookies plus our holiday bags. The holiday bags are plastic bags filled with a variety of food treats - different chips, small candies, etc., that we never see otherwise. The bags get smaller each year, but it is something to look forward to.

We'd also have a holiday meal for Christmas & New Year's - much like T-giving & that's about it. Last year they had a holiday decoration contest for each unit, but it appears they won't do that this year.

The holidays are the worst in prison. It is so extremely depressing. Something inside of me has died when it comes to holidays. My ex & I had one Xmas in between all our legal troubles & I couldn't even bring myself to decorate the tree. I went to my room & cried instead. And Xmas used to be so magical for me. It's so sad.

On a better note, I started my crochet class last week. Yah! I am SO GLAD to have that class back. I started the class at this prison a couple years ago & then lost it to some back-stabbing bitch when I went to the Hole for "investigation" (AKA nothing). Now the aforementioned bitch is in the Hole pending transfer after ratting (telling) on a staff member. Karma, bitch!

It's tough teaching beginners 'cause you need to spend time with each person individually to see what they're doing wrong or to show them how to move on to the next step. So, I spend a lot of time - all the time - going from person to person. It's busy, but I love it.

I'm also really busy making a variety of things for other people. One guy wants 3 bracelets with loved one's names on them & another guy wants a ~~scarf~~ scarf made. I have to borrow the thread for the bracelets 'cause they don't have beading here (I have some stuff left over from the last prison). Also, technically, none of this is allowed 'cause you're not supposed to make - & especially not sell - stuff for other prisoners. However, I am a Rebel & I plan on raking in the stamps. Cha-ching!!

I hope y'all have a wonderful holiday season!

Love & Blessings,
