

bm94

Thank you for reading my blog
And for your words of ENCOURAGE-MENT and well wishes. I am doing my very best in this litigation that has BEEN going on for FIVE(S) years, "And still counting". Two successful appellate decisions in my favor thus far and I am currently doing research and drafting my third appeal of Rulings and other Acts & omissions by judge Lori C.
Hockett. (SEE: LAKETH AMIR-SHAHIT vs.
TEXAS Dept. of Family & Protective Services and TEXAS Attorney General Appeal No.
05-13-00958)

Previous appellate decisions at:

IN RE: I. K. SHAHIT, A child
339 SW.3d 156 (Tex. App. - Dallas 2011)

IN RE: LAKETH AMIR-SHAHIT
357 SW.3d 180 (Tex. App. - Dallas 2012)

6mg4

(2)

Lori C. Hockett is not the only Dallas County District Court judge worthy of closer scrutiny and the voters chopping-block in this upcoming election. Judge Carter Thompson, of the Criminal District Court No. # 05 has refused and failed to comply with a "FEBRUARY 09, 2012", federal courts order remanding my habeas corpus petition back to the trial court for further proceedings. (SEE: LAKEITH AMIR-SHAHID vs. BRAD LIVINGSTON, USDC No # PE:11-CV-00047-RAT)

The U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals is intervening and an order from that court regarding judge Thompson's action is expected very soon. (SEE: IN RE: LAKEITH AMIR-SHAHID, Appeal No # 13-50253)