Greetings calhoun25

Enjoy this feature w/replies & communication w/readers. I will look in the prison library for some of the aforementioned philosophers. It is a part of historical literature I am sure I will enjoy. Socrates I enjoyed fully. In his trials for his life (relate to this) He represented himself! In the face of insurmountable adversity, he trash talked the political systems, delt with the prosecutor & ultimately chose the path of securing his own future & demise. It was brave, noble & as he said "He had lived a good long life"... Socrates final words as he took the fatal hemlock poison;

"Crito, I owe a cock to Asclepius; will you remember to pay the debt?"

As for my book "the grass beneath his feet - the Charles Thompson story" it is listed on Amazon.com Barnes & Noble.com the English summary/flyer is on this btb page (as well as French German editions flyers).

I look forward to feedback of the life story, case, escape/capture. its a good depiction of my history. my thanks for your reply :0) wishing you a happy new years!

Best regards - Chuck Thompson
