

Reply ID: pFK6

1/1/14

people are more concern about black social violence, than they are about white systemic violence, because black social violence seem's to make less sense to people, than white systemic violence, people are more concern about nonwhite systemic oppression & corruption, than they are about white systemic oppression & corruption, because nonwhite systemic oppression & corruption seem's to make less sense to people, than white systemic oppression & corruption, peoples concerns on black social violence over white systemic violence, & their concerns on nonwhite systemic oppression & corruption, over white systemic oppression & corruption, are stumbling blocks to social justice revolution, what over comes these stumbling blocks & addresses these concerns of people? a south african multiracial peace & reconciliation type approach to social justice revolution, in the form of a multiracial revolutionary

Reply ID: pFK6

1/1/14

workers front, with a central plank of full federal & state benefits for unemployed workers & their families, including corporate & government funds to pay the bills, rents & debts for any laid off worker, & unemployment compensation at 100% of regular paid wage, lasting the full length of a worker's period of unemployment, this helps with the mobilization of revolutionary forces,

post for <http://betweenthebars.org/blogs/1491>