RE: SHU update: (Post)

I recently heard that the CDCR has decided to revise some of its step down procedures, one being that they are not going to require that inmates sign a contract before they can advance to another step, and agreeing to do whatever they want us to do.

We did not like this because it was like signing off that we are making a deal with the devil. whatever they later tell us to do we must do or be sent back to SHU. so this is a big step (sounds good). Next they said they are going to start allowing SHU inmates to have almost everything that other prisoners out on general population have, this is a very big move. (an attorney is the one who said this is what was discussed in the latest hearings).

But we'll have to wait and see it, before one can get excited, we've heard it all before and so far nothing has been done. I won't knock it until I either see a change or not, but a very long time ago this is what it used to be like. we had almost everything the mainline had.

then in 1982 they got on the rag and began stripping us of all we had. the tough on crime bullshit was begun and they beat us with that stick for the next 20 or 30 years.

anyways thats the word, dont repeat it to loud because you might jinx us.
