It is a Common Occurance in Prison that an Inmate is Required to disrobe and show his anus to a Prison guard. God only knows how this practice got started in the first place. They rarely ever catch inmates with hidden contraband within his chocolate forbidden zone. The rectum has what's known as O rings. And wastes are pushed along. If the playing field is empty so to speak nothing can come out no matter how many times your ordered to bend over and cough - Like I said the Rectum has these rings and if an inmate pushes contraband past first Ring it will stay there until the Digestive system sends more poop to push. Only an inexperienced idiotic prisoner would try and stuff a full tank.
