

Do as thou wilt shall be the whole of the law.

January 5, 2014

2013 has come and gone, leaving with a basket full of memories both good and sad. And of course I'm fortunate still even though I'm incarcerated for LIFE within these often cold and dark prison walls of N.C. - (More so Mental & physical.)

In 2013 I was able to sustain constant communication contact with my beautiful Daughter "Cora", and my Grandbabies 😊; also I was fortunate to re-establish contact with my daughter & friend "Sarah", to receive contact visits with her - the first since 1998. And to actually see and hold one of my grandchildren.

I've been able to obtain a mediocre job at Enterprise (Prison employers) at $2.99 a day which I know is far more than some people make of an hour at a Burger in the Sewing Plant; a miniature meat shop - literally.

My Greatest Influence as He at last completed her tour of duty on this planet and decided that it was time to ~~vacate~~ vacate the premises on Wednesday, September 25, 2013. She gave us nearly 83 years of her Angelic presence here on this earth.

She was always there for me no matter what, she believed in me, loved me, was ever on my side. She gave me hope and inspiration, she taught me hope, how to create and utilize strength and courage!

Even in her declining stages she had thoughts and time for me; while her grandchildren Carolyn and Stephanie sought ways to use and abuse her weakness; while her own daughter and son-in-law (Wilma and Melvin) sought ways to use and exploit her for material and physical gains. This Angel never once abandoned me, nor failed to extend her heart and love unto me.

Though demons danced about her, she showed no fear, she pushed forward knowing their evilness, set them to their dark ways; until she seen time to ascend. Thus she quietly

On November 23, 2013 I was fortunate and so blessed to meet in person for the first time my Cora's oldest son & daughter "Sam & Siara"; My beautiful little grandbabies Sam 10 yrs. & Siara 7 yrs., and it was an awesome visit, I was so moved and awed; these children are so compassionate, smart, and well behaved! My daughter has certainly done well on her own in caring for her children, in teaching and raising them as well. She herself is awesome. I hope to ~~see~~ see her and her youngest daughter some time this year.

So, all in all 2013 leaves me with several fortunate events; and even though I was saddened to see my Grand Mother depart; I am sure that that she'd in far less pain and in much better company - And there is no doubt that she's ever standing guard over me.

What 2014 has instored for me I have not the slightest clue; I can ~~only~~ only set sail to discover mine own will and to do this will in earnest; I can strive to achieve specific goals and to obtain specific items. But most of all I seek to discover Knowledge, wisdom, and Understanding - that I might be able to shed insight into the lives of others that I might be able to share with others through my own experiences and insights in order to aid them in their journey of life, to hopefully enable them to avoid some of the ~~best~~ turbulent storms and crushing waves along the way.

I struggle daily with constant occurring and ever strengthening Nihilistic views; I'm finding it easier with each dying day to ~~disbelieve~~ disbelieve in some Omnipresent, Omnipotent, Caring, compassionate and Merciful at Just Divine Creator, each day I survive to witness the ever prevailing chaos and brutal violence and sexual abuse, senseless murders in this world, I am convinced that we (humans) are pretty much on our own committed to the hands of Fate! We're all apparently miniscule chess pieces of the Universe & the elementals under her control.

Condemned to endure man's darkened school of madness; cancerous hate - abused by all he meets this child left alone by your god to wrestle with fate.
