The purpose of life

A Battlefield

The whole universe is a vast battlefield is nothing but a vain struggle, elements against energies against energies, men against men, women women, men against animals, animals against men nature, nature against men, and within the physical system itself it is a big battlefield. The mind itself biggest battlefield.

The man who is not at peace with himself peace with the world, and external wars he in order to hide the fact from individuals that he war is within. The most important prayer of man today is for peace, but there can be no peace in this war-torn world until the conflicts of man with himself are ended.

In the eyes of the Buddha living beings are like fish in a stream that is almost dry, being in the grip of craving, either leaping hither and thither, like a snare or lost like arrows shot at night. In the struggle of all against all, the senseless series of depredations, in which one feeds upon another, only in turn to be fed upon by others, war is created by the human mind and the same human mind can create peace with justice if man uses his unbiased mind.

World history tells us that racial discrimination, colour bar, religious fanaticism and greed for political power and wealth have created enormous miseries and disasters in this world and have taken a heavy toll of lives in a cruel way. These things have never contributed anything towards development of the world. People who are thirsty for power and wealth and intoxicated with jealousy always create trouble and often try to justify their cruel acts by talking nonsense in the name of peace and justice.

We are living in a world which is physically united but mentally divided and at the same time mentally united but physically divided. "We live and work and dream, each has his little scheme, sometimes we laugh; sometimes we cry. And thus the days go by."
