

Ronald W. Clarke
February 2, 2014

My Mom

My mother shared a story with me today that I wanted to share. She found $20. this past week, which was a blessing. The next day she was in McDonald's, the woman ahead of her was asking the cashier how much 2 potato cakes are, the cashier said such and such, The lady said I don't have enough. Mom said to the lady order what you want for breakfast, I got it. As mom was leaving she seen another lady outside who looked homeless and hungry. Mom walked up and asked her if she had eaten breakfast. The lady said no. Mom said come in here and I'll pay for it. The lady came in and ordered her some food, mom paid for it. That's just a kind, loving, compassionate human being. It's the way we all should be. She said I wish I was rich so I could go around helping people like this. She's not expecting me to share this, but I just wanted to share with the world the kind of mother I have. She's an amazing woman.

God bless you
In Peace + Love

Ronnie

