

What/Who is Japeth?

Japeth was the Biblical son of Noah, who, along with his two brethren, Shem and Ham, repopulated the earth after it was destroyed by Almighty God for the sins of the antediluvian world. Japeth, along with Shem, received paternal blessings from Noah, shortly after the flood, while Ham, along with his descendants, beginning with Canaan, received a curse. The ancient Israelites of the Bible traced their lineage through Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, past the Biblical Heber (from whence derives "Hebrews") and to the patriarch Shem. This is the source of the word "Semite." Shem became the forefather of a multitude of nations, most notably the Israelites, Ammonites, Moabites, Arabians, Turks, Persians, Asians and a host of other Eastern peoples.

Ham also became the forefather of a multitude of peoples. Most notably the Canaanites and Philistines who were condemned to destruction by God through the Israelites, but also the Hittites (who sprang from the bloodline of 'Heth'), the Egyptians, Ethiopians, Libyans, and multitudes of other Afro/Negroid peoples.

Japeth went on to father seven sons, whose bloodlines went on to found dynasties of their own. We can trace the descent of these bloodlines through both Biblical and secular sources. His descendants can be found concentrated in the various, so-called 'European' peoples of the world today, even if the peoples derived from his stock no longer reside in, nor originated from, Europe. The Germans, English, Irish, Scots, French, Spanish, Greeks, Romans, and Medes, among others, can all be traced definitively back to one of the several bloodlines of Japeth.

We identify more with the name of Japeth simply because many of the nations derived from that bloodline do not reside, and have not resided, in any one part of the earth for some time, particularly Europe, just as many of the 'African' peoples of the world today no longer reside, or have any intention of returning to, Africa. Given the massive displacements, sometimes unwillingly, of peoples from location to location across the surface of the globe, (such as the Turks in Turkey, who were not native to Asia Minor, but from the far east, near modern day China) we find it expedient to trace national characteristics and dispositions by bloodlines rather than current geographical residences.

We also find, not only in modern American politics, but throughout the history of the world, that peoples share more in common with, in outlooks, views, and dispositions, peoples they are more closely related to, rather than peoples who the contingencies of fate have temporarily thrust them into proximity to each other.

Why the necessity of reorganizing into a distinct separate political entity?

Looking around at the world today, we see that other distinct ethnic groups have homelands for the security and prosperity of their respective peoples. There exist, for instance, several African nations, controlled and constituted for, the specific peoples they serve. Nigeria, as one example, in 1979, seized the property of non-native Africans, and expelled all the ethnic Asian and Indian peoples who had been citizens of, and residing in, their country. In Zimbabwe also, government funds, acquired from the taxation of all Zimbabwean citizens, are used to purchase the property of white Zimbabwean farmers and redistribute it to black Zimbabweans. Additionally, we see similar practices to these perpetuated in various African nations throughout the continent.

Latin American nations are constituted for specific ethnic groups as well. In Mexico, for instance, one must be a Mexican citizen, either by blood or by marriage, to purchase certain pieces of land. Immigration is illegal and military and civil force is used to deter the peoples from the South from entering Mexico illegally and depriving the Mexican people from certain types of jobs.

Israel, also, in 1948 was constituted as a distinct political state for the Jewish people. Many of the Palestinians who had previously lived there for thousands of years, were butchered or forcibly expelled to make room for a homeland for racial Jews to migrate to from all over the earth. The "Law of Return", in which any blood, genetic Jew from anywhere on earth is guaranteed, upon application, automatic Israeli citizenship, is inapplicable to any other ethnic group on earth. It is a nation constituted by, and for, Jews.

Similar circumstances exist for the various other nationalities and ethnicities across the globe in which governments, educational systems, militaries, and economies are constituted into concrete political entities for the betterment and advancement of specific peoples. The United Nations professedly recognizes this right also as the "right of self-determination of nations".

The Japhetic peoples of the earth, however, have no homeland. The historic regions that once served as the refuges and shelters of our peoples have, for some time, been the target of intense, concentrated ideological attacks in which we have been led to believe that we are not even a people, that we have no distinction, have no right to self determination, no right to security, no common history, and that any attempt to assert that we do is deemed racist, xenophobic, and bigotted.

We, as a people, have fallen, and are falling, the first of many victims to the worldwide systematic errors of Communism, which have, as their stated objective, the complete erasure of any ethnic, national, social, economic, religious or other distinctions between mankind in the attempt to remold the world into a one-world polity in which no divisions, or borders, or barriers exist between one people and another. This system, and others like it, has historically created a destructive slavery on every people upon whom it has been forced and it clearly and reasonably can be shown to violate BOTH DIVINE AND NATURAL PRECEPTS OF JUSTICE AS WELL AS ANY NUMBER OF God-given rights and freedoms that the human race has enjoyed since time immemorial.

Unfettered Capitalism, in whom many of our peoples see as the only alternative to stave off the satanic scourge of Communism, has proved to be an equally destructive mythology. Reducing the value of our people to no more than a set means of economic output, the leaders and politicians that serve the god of mammon have been all too willing to reduce to slavery or elimination any and all whom it would be economically feasible to discard. They have placed the security and preservation of the dollar over and above the security and preservation of our peoples and for the right price, to even accept legalized bribery, AKA "lobbying", to openly and shamelessly support policies of clear detrimental value to the interests of the very people they were empowered to serve.

We trace the origin and source of these destructive political philosophies, along with many others, to the demonic ideologies unleashed during the French Revolution of 1789, that then spread, and continue to spread, unabated throughout the world. We therefore seek a return to Tradition. A return to God, to Blood, to Soil. We seek to unite the disorganized and besieged bloodlines and tribes of Japeth into a reformed and reconstituted polity to secure the interests and safety of our peoples. This is our stated objective, or, as in the words of a kinsman who previously dedicated his life to the solving of this ongoing persistent problematical situation: "We must secure the existence of our people, and a future for White children!"
