Breakin The Law

By Debra E. Jones

CDCR! C is for choices, D is for your decisions,
C is for consequences, R is the repercussions up in prison.
You decided to break the law, the money you couldn't resist, now you're in a patrol car, with cuffs on your wrists.
Why you letting them win? robbing people for their gold what were you thinking bout? Know you are on parole.
Already got a leash on your neck, you already did 10,
your choices and decisions, put you back in the pen.
Whatever you do, for whatever action you take,
it's consequences and repercussions another bid you'll make.
Stuck in a prison cell, thinkin' how you messed up.
Know the judicial system you just left, is so damn corrupt.
Life is at a halt, now you wanna rededicate your life,
you can do that, but guess what? it's your third strike.
You can ask for forgiveness, and call on the Lord,
Praying they'll release you, when you go before the board.
They look over your file, see you weren't disciplinary free, haven't rehabilitated yourself, and they deny you for 3.
Now you're older, your mind has been transformed,
now you wanna be a mentor, so other kids you can warn.
Tell them what prison is like, and what you'll go through,
tell them to stay out of trouble, or they'll get you!
For every action, there's a reaction, even a cause, stay out of CDCR! that's where you go, when you break the law!
